FOODCHAIN™ Software Solutions

Our depth of knowledge and real-world experience of our key industrial markets, coupled with our software development expertise, has allowed us to produce advanced, specialised software applications which address the unique demands of the meat processing, perishable food processing, manufacturing and distribution sectors.

One major difference between Cedar Creek Company and other suppliers is that our systems are software-centric, utilising innovative software design, combined with robust SASTEK hardware to provide smarter, more flexible solutions. By contrast, many suppliers have a hardware-centric approach, with systems often restricted in their software capabilities, lacking functionalities or unable to be configured or modified to meet the project requirements.

Our software systems are intelligent, modular, flexible, and future-proofed by our ability to modify or enhance the application software to meet each client's changing business needs.
